

Request to review Pacific Islands Technical Memo as input to National Climate Assessment

I'm the assistant to the Director of the National Climatic Data Center (Tom Karl) and am helping coordinate a review of a technical report that NOAA intends to issue as input to the National Climate Assessment. The report is entitled "Climate of the Pacific Islands". It describes the observed historical climate conditions for the region, and provides a set of climate scenarios as plausible futures. As part of a set of nine regional reports, it is intended to serve as an important scientific reference point. Given your expertise, would you be able to review the document?

The turnaround time is short - would be great to complete within the next week or two - but your review would provide a great service to the Assessment.

May I send you the report for your review? Many thanks for your kind consideration.

Thanks,
James
